for the project, the research team generated immune cells called dendritic cells (dcs) from the blood of rhesus macaques that would later provide a kidney to recipient monkeys.

It would sound completely in place for a season one episode of Mad Men.

Little known outside of Scandinavia, Meyer is Denmark's most famous foodie.

I've even taken pictures of all my bruises as a reminder of what I left.

The friends-family test is another way of gathering patient feedback.

You have no idea how much this post meant to me.

To do is say “So what if you wake conscious of the lump in my throat, the self awareness, the feelings...”