it is good medical practice for all women to have annual history and physical examinations, including women using oral contraceptives.