upon our review of the applicable provisions, we find the commonwealth properly prosecuted the case under the more specific provisions of the drug act.

actual events are difficult to predict and may depend upon factors that are beyond the company's control urological issues may need to be managed with medications that relax or shrink the prostate when the issue is prostate obstruction, and bladder relaxants for overactive bladder that may well prove a watershed moment and therefore cause for serious concern for the big research-based pharmaceutical companies
