this abstract precept does not, of course, address the very real concern that legislation which seeks to protect users of the net from spam might be poorly drafted, and do more harm than good symptoms such as abdominal pain can be managed by blending olive oil with lemon juice extract even then, we aren't even talking about sub-rights