as stated earlier, it is very important to screen everyone in the household in the case of a louse or scabies outbreak.

the short answer is that it is impossible to give a definitive and over-arching answer to this query as the medications work in different ways.