MDMA was shipped by independent traffickers by post or express mail services from source areas in Texas and the West Coast to distributors across the country.

For most vendors, anti-spam, anti-virus and policy-based controls are silos of completely disparate tools that don't talk to each other and can't affect each other.