can he assure the house and the nation at large that, when operational, the plants will sell mealie meal at cheaper prices compared with that produced from the conventional milling plants.

Insurers have already used a similar policy to avoid covering individuals at high risk for AIDS.